Juan Carlos warns political feuders

MADRID, Nov. 18 (R) — King Juan Carlos, in his sternest warning to Spanish politicians since last February's abortive military coup, has told them to end party quarrels and ignore personal ambitions.

U.N. urges Soviet Union to withdraw from Afghanistan

UNITED NATIONS, Nov. 18 (A.P.) — By the largest vote yet, the United Nations called on today for the immediate withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan.

Israel imposes curfew on 4 W. Bank villages

TEL AVIV, Nov. 18 (Agencies) — The Israeli occupation authorities today slapped a curfew on four Arab villages in the occupied West Bank following yesterday's attack on a pro-Israeli Arab, military sources said.

The Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO) claimed responsibility for the ambush on Yousef Al Khatib and his son Kazem, in which the latter died.

The PLO statement issued yesterday in Beirut said Mr. Khatib and his son were ambushed by a PLO "firing squad" in the village of Betunia, and it vowed to "execute all other collaborators with the Zionist enemy throughout our occupied homeland."

The sentence passed by the Palestinian people and the Palestinian revolution against the two collaborating traitors was carried out by martyr Dala Moghrabi Squad, the statement added.

Moghrabi was the 21-year-old female Palestinian commando who led a hostage-taking attack on a bus on the Tel Aviv-Haifa highway on March 11, 1978.

The villages Silwan, 'Ain Qiniya, 'Ain Arik and Mazrat Al Albiya were under curfew today as troops mounted a massive manhunt for the commandos who carried out the attack.

No arrests have been reported in connection with the shootings.

Mr. Khatib is the head of a Ramallah village association encouraged by Israeli authorities in the occupied West Bank. The authorities hope to develop the village association heads into local leaders, with the aim of including them in the so-called autonomy plan, which most Palestinians reject.

The mayors of occupied West Bank towns say that the village associations are allowed a free flow of funds by the authorities, who believe that the local population will become loyal to the associations.

Israeli security forces today detained several Arab schoolgirls in Hebron after they stoned a passing Israeli bus, military sources said.

PLO denounces treaty

Meanwhile, pamphlets bearing the official seal of the PLO were circulated in the West Bank to mark the fourth anniversary of the late Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's visit to Jerusalem on Nov. 19, 1977, Israeli Radio reported.

The pamphlets labelled Mr. Sadat "traitor" and said his visit and subsequent treaty with Israel were responsible for Israeli oppression in the territories, the state radio reported.

The pamphlets called on the Palestinian people to rally round the PLO and to establish a Palestinian staff.

The Saudi blueprint for peace, which calls for a total Israeli withdrawal from all occupied territories and the creation of a Palestinian state with Jerusalem as its capital. It also calls for peaceful co-existence among all states in the region.

King opens seminar on peace in Mideast

LONDON, Nov. 18 (Petra) — His Majesty King Hussein opened at the Royal Institute for International Affairs here today a seminar on the future of peace in the Middle East.

King Hussein reviewed before an audience of Middle East specialists from Europe and the United States the different aspects of the Palestine issue and the sufferings of the Palestinians at the hands of the Zionist terrorists. He called for real efforts to tackle the problem.

"Unless a just and honourable solution is found, the Middle East will continue to live through instability," King Hussein said.

He added that the so-called autonomy talks (between the United States, Egypt and Israel) will not achieve anything as did the Camp David agreements which have failed.

The Middle East question should have a just settlement that would safeguard the legitimate national rights of Palestinians in their homeland, King Hussein said.

He said the Palestinian people and their sole and legitimate representative, the Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO) should have the basic role in determining the future of peace in the region.

Zionist extremism has become a common phenomena, illustrated in increased acts of aggression on Lebanon, within the occupied Arab territories or on other parts of the Arab World as happened to the Iraqi nuclear reactor," King Hussein said.

The King said this is a dangerous precedent detrimental to world stability and peace.

King Hussein called for the need to keep the Middle East question free of polarisation and axes. The question should be settled through joint efforts from the United States, the Soviet Union and Europe, King Hussein asserted.

On Med-Dead canal project

Israel's plan to build a canal between the Mediterranean and the Dead Sea reflects explicit proof of its intention not to recognise the rights of others, King Hussein said.

Half of the Dead Sea falls under Jordanian sovereignty and one quarter of it is within the limits of the occupied Arab territories, thus making three quarters of the Dead Sea and Arab region, King Hussein pointed out.

He added that the canal will be used to cool the nuclear reactors in Israel which has not yet signed the nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

These practices, the King said, gives the impression that Israel does not intend to recognise Arab rights nor will it withdraw from the occupied Arab territories.

During the seminar, organised by Arab Studies Centre in London, participants will discuss elements for achieving a just and durable Middle East peace. The participants include leading Arab politicians, PLO officials and Mr. Ismat Kittaneh, president of the United Nations General Assembly.

Military saves Kissinger from Brazilian protesters

BRASILIA, Nov. 18 (Agencies) — Brazilian military police had to intervene today to rescue former U.S. secretary of state Henry Kissinger and several foreign diplomats who were trapped inside the University of Brasilia by demonstrators.

Reagan offers Brezhnev nuclear deal in Europe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (R) — President Ronald Reagan offered today to drop NATO plans for new nuclear missiles in Europe if the Soviet Union scraps nearly twice as many of its warheads, a move he said would reduce the threat of atomic war.

In his first major foreign policy address, and in a letter to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev that he disclosed at the same time, Mr. Reagan proposed a four-point arms control plan including a trade-off of U.S. and Soviet medium-range missiles in Europe.

A senior administration official told reporters that the proposal, under which the Soviet Union would dismantle 600 existing missiles with 1,100 warheads and NATO would drop its controversial plan for 572 new single-warhead missiles, was made "in good faith" and it was now up to Moscow to respond.

U.S. officials said the president's speech was scheduled at the last moment because U.S.-Soviet talks on these Theatre Nuclear Forces (TNF) are less than two weeks off. They will begin in Geneva on Nov. 30.

But they conceded the timing also took account of growing European opposition to the plan to deploy 572 Pershing II and Cruise missiles capable of striking Soviet targets from Western Europe for the first time.

The administration expects Mr. Brezhnev to try to capitalise on the West European anti-nuclear sentiment when he visits West Germany this weekend, possibly with a new arms proposal of his own such as a freeze in Soviet SS-20 missiles.

In addition to his proposal on intermediate-range TNF, Mr. Reagan called for negotiations aimed at substantial, equitable and verifiable reductions in the superpowers' intercontinental nuclear missiles to begin "as soon as possible next year."

The senior official told reporters at the State Department that Secretary of State Alexander Haig would meet Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Geneva on January 26 and 27 and would discuss resumption of the strategic arms talks then.

Mr. Reagan also called for equality in North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO) and Warsaw Pact conventional (non-nuclear) forces in Europe, a move he said would require significant reductions in Soviet strength.

Negotiations aimed at mutual and balanced force reductions in Europe have been going on for more than seven years, but little or no progress has been made recently.

Finally, the president urged Mr. Brezhnev to accept Western proposals already advanced at a meeting in Madrid for a new conference to work out measures to reduce the dangers of surprise attack or war arising from miscalculations.

He opened his televised address, which contained few details except for the TNF trade-off proposal, by reading at length from a letter he wrote to Mr. Brezhnev last April. The full contents had not been previously disclosed.

In the letter, Mr. Reagan urged joint efforts to advance peace and human aspirations worldwide. But the tone was harsh overall, singling out Soviet intervention in Afghanistan for criticism and rejecting accusations of U.S. imperialism.

Riyadh clarifies stand on Mideast peace plan

BAHRAIN, Nov. 18 (R) — Saudi Arabian Information Minister Mohammad Abdo Yamani was quoted today as saying that Saudi Arabia did not want to impose its Middle East peace plan on any Arab country.

He said in an interview with the Saudi daily Al Sharq Al Awsat that the kingdom did not want to impose the eight-point plan on anyone without being convinced that it represented a sound approach for serving the Arab cause.

But he attacked those who wanted to throw the plan "into the wilderness of wrong interpretation and polemics."

He did not name the critics of the plan, which calls for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands and the creation of a Palestinian state. The proposals have aroused mixed reaction in the Arab World, with Libya and certain Palestinian groups condemning them.

The Saudi minister said the Palestinians were "the owners of the first and last word on the (Arab) cause. They said their word and we welcomed entering into a dialogue with them."

Ankara reports huge arms haul to Council of Europe

STRASBOURG, France, Nov. 18 (R) — Turkish security forces have seized 700,000 pistols and machine guns and 80 rockets since the military coup last year, according to an official Turkish report to the Council of Europe.

The report, made available to Reuters today, also says that 23 rocket-launchers, five anti-aircraft guns and more than five million bullets have been seized in a clampdown aimed at eliminating political violence.

The report was given to the 21-nation Council of Europe, of which Turkey is a member, by the country's permanent representative in Strasbourg.

Turkish membership of the body which has made the defence of human rights and democracy a priority since its foundation in 1949, has been threatened by the Turkish military's suspension of parliament.

MIDDLE EAST BRIEFS

Habib to return to Mideast soon

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (R) — President Reagan's Middle East envoy Philip Habib plans to return to the region later this month to try to strengthen the four-month-old ceasefire in Lebanon and to ease Israeli concerns about U.S. policies, the New York Times said today. It reported from Washington that a formal announcement of his mission would be made in a few days' time.

It would be Mr. Habib's first trip to the Middle East since last July. Israel has commented recently about a seeming delay in his return to the region. The Times said his new mission would come at a time of renewed tensions in Lebanon and Israel and apprehension in Washington that the truce might fall apart. Israel has threatened a "pre-emptive" strike against Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO) forces in Lebanon.

Haddad orders lifting UNIFIL blockade

SIDON, Lebanon, Nov. 18 (R) — Right-wing militia leader Saad Haddad today ordered the lifting of a blockade on the U.N. peace-keeping force's headquarters in South Lebanon, the militia Voice of Hope radio said. The radio quoted Mr. Haddad as saying the blockade was being ended as a humanitarian measure. Militiamen blocked roads to the headquarters on Monday and blew up its water pipes and reports said the blockade continued today.

Local people said militiamen attacked a U.N. post at Shaqra in the eastern sector of South Lebanon today after warning its Ghanaian troops to leave but there were no reports of casualties. The militiamen are angry because a landmine killed three of their men last Friday. They blamed Palestinian commandos and said the U.N. force was negligent in not preventing the incident.

Two Iranian police officers executed

LONDON, Nov. 18 (R) — Two police officers have been executed in the eastern Iranian city of Mashhad, one for selling opium and the other for adultery, Tehran's Etefa'at newspaper reported today. The local military court also sentenced a soldier to five years' imprisonment and public flogging for having links with the radical left-wing people's Mujahadeen organisation, it said. Etefa'at also reported the execution of three leftist militants in the Kurdish provincial capital of Sanandaj.

3 Cypriots arrested at Beirut airport

BEIRUT, Nov. 18 (A.P.) — Three Greek Cypriots were arrested at Beirut airport today and police said they were carrying explosives, detonators and hashish in their bags. A police spokesman, who refused to be identified in compliance with Lebanese government regulations, said the three were detained before boarding a Lebanese Middle East Airlines jetliner bound for Larnaca, Cyprus, at mid-morning. The spokesman said customs officers, who made the arrests, identified the detainees only as A.N. Sarris, M. Zinonas and P. Christofides. Their ages and hometowns were not revealed. They were turned over to Lebanese military investigators for interrogation, the spokesman said. The amount of explosives found on them was not disclosed.

Saudi policemen complete U.S. training

CHARLOTTE, North Carolina, Nov. 18 (A.P.) — A dozen Saudi police trainees ended a week of training with the Charlotte police department today as part of their training to become lieutenants with the national traffic police in Saudi Arabia. The 12 are among a group of 52 Saudis who are to complete a 30-month programme in February at the Institute of Police Traffic Management in Jacksonville, Florida. Twelve other Saudi traffic police trainees spent a week with Charlotte police earlier this year. The students previously have worked with police in Greensboro, Baltimore, Minneapolis and Baton Rouge, Louisiana. After their training in the United States, the students will train for six more months in their homeland before becoming officers.

'Deep, sophisticated' U.S.-Jordanian seminar begins in Washington today

By Samira Kawar
Special to the Jordan Times

AMMAN, Nov. 18 — A 16-member Jordanian delegation, headed by Information Minister Adnan Abu Odeh, will attend a two-day conference beginning at Georgetown University in Washington D.C. on Thursday, on the promotion of a better U.S. understanding of the Arab cause and point of view and the establishment of more effective channels of communication between the U.S. and the Arab world.

The conference is jointly sponsored by the World Affairs Council and Georgetown University. World Affairs Council Secretary Kamel Abu Jaber told the Jordan Times that its purpose is to present the Arab point of view on the Middle East conflict, discuss and analyse it in a "deep, sophisticated manner" and examine possible ideas for a solution to the issue.

The conference will also present the Arab point of view regarding the presentation and handling of Arab and Middle Eastern affairs by the U.S. media, in an attempt to bring about fairer U.S. media coverage and establish better channels of communication. Dr. Abu Jaber said, far from being "a session of mutual accusations", the conference will present a forum for "sophisticated, scholarly and orderly discussion" of these issues, he emphasised.

The Jordanian participants are: Mr. Abu Odeh, Dr. Adnan Al Bakhit, Dr. Abbas Kalidar, Dr. Kamal Al Sha'er, Mr. Ali Ghandour, Mrs. Laila Sharaf, Dr. Hashem Al Dabbas, Dr. Fawzi Gharaybeh, Mr. Rami Khouri, Mr. Taher Hikmat, Mr. Raouf

Abu Jaber, Mr. Tawfiq Kawar, Dr. Subhi Al Tibi, Dr. Adawiyah Al Alami, Mr. Mohammad Al Kilani and Mr. Khaled Al Bitar.

The conference's first panel discussion will deal with "Problems in Arab-American Communication", and an American speaker will deliver a paper entitled "The Arabs in the U.S. Media and Public Opinion", which will be followed by a paper given by Mr. Abu Odeh entitled "The U.S. in the Arab Media and Public Opinion".

Following a half-hour discussion period, the second panel, to be chaired by Mrs. Sharaf, will deal with "Perspectives on U.S. Middle East Policy". An American speaker will speak of "American-Jewish Perceptions", and Dr. Bakhit will speak on Arab Perceptions. Following a short discussion of the two presentations, an American speaker will deliver a paper entitled "General Statement on U.S. problems".

"Issues in Arab-American Relations" will be the theme of the third panel, which will be chaired by Dr. Dabbas. Dr. Kalidar will speak on the Political Perspectives of relations, and Dr. Gharaybeh will treat the Economic Perspectives. An American speaker will then deliver a talk on Common Economic Interests, to be followed by a Georgetown University speaker on The Strategic Military Dimension.

Mr. Ghandour will deliver a dinner talk entitled "The Gulf Strategic Consensus: External Danger versus Internal Dissension", which will be followed by a discussion.

The fourth panel, on Friday, will treat the theme of "Initiatives in Search for Peace in the Middle East", and four participants will speak on The Status of the European Position, The Soviet Position, The Israeli Position and The American Position. An Arab Palestinian Position will be presented by Dr. Hisham Sharabi. An open forum will then be chaired by Adm. Baynes, a U.S. participant, to discuss major issues. The last speaker will be Professor Edward Said, a member of the Palestine National Council and author of works entitled "Orientalism, The Question of Palestine and Covering Islam".

Dr. Abu Jaber said that all Arab ambassadors in Washington have been invited to the conference, which is expected to be attended by an estimated 100 people at all times, he said that he expects the conference to have a significant impact on American opinion on three levels: The students and faculty of Georgetown University; official U.S. circles, particularly since National Security Adviser Richard Allen will be hosting the participants and addressing them, and the American public at large, because of the scholarly, orderly presentation of the Arab point of view.

He added that he expects the conference to generate a great deal of interest because of its "timeliness", and since it comes in the wake of His Majesty King Hussein's visit to the U.S. and will provide an opportunity for a follow-up on his discussions with U.S. officials.

Also contributing to the timeliness of the conference, in Dr. Abu Jaber's view, is the fact that "many developments may occur before April, 1982, the scheduled date for the completion of the Israeli withdrawal from Sinai". Dr. Abu Jaber therefore feels that the discussion of current and possible Middle East developments at such a crucial juncture will be regarded with special interest.

Another development which he feels makes it particularly important to present the Jordanian and Palestinian points of view, and the Arab understanding of what a Middle East solution should be, is the resumption of the Egyptian-Israeli autonomy talks.

ART REVIEW

Yasser Duwaik: original, satisfying fruits of a 30-year development

By Meg Abu Hamdan
Special to the Jordan Times

AMMAN, Nov. 18 — One of Jordan's established artists, Yasser Duwaik, is holding a small retrospective of his work at the Jordan Artists' Association this week before going on to show, in some four months' time, his latest work. Spanning almost 30 years, these water-colours, oils and lithographs show the artist's development from the impressionistic portrayal of his culture and environment to his latest abstracts, which draw upon and develop the same themes in an original and satisfying way.

It is not often one can pick out the origins of an artist's latest work in pieces dating as far back as 15 years; but in a print dating from 1965 of a small dark Jordanian house, are hints of what was to come. For there, in the rows of delicate arched windows, in the grids and in the movement evoked by the crazy angles of the sloping walls are the motifs to be found in a subtle 1981 abstract water-colour.

The latter, however, is much more than a development of an earlier style. The mixture of soft colours, their swift spontaneous application, the fierce patches of thick pencil lines exude a rare confidence — a conviction that this is essentially Jordanian — as well as impressing one by the sheer painterly virtuosity.

It is a virtuosity that seems to have come with later years. For it is in his latest pieces that the artist's ability to capture light and stunning skies is brought home with an impact. Take for example the light-flooded view of Aqaba harbour, where the sun glints in glittering gold off the sea, or the skies in "Nature I" and "Nature 2". Here Duwaik captures, in slanting bands of light, the bubbling pinks and soft blues of the autumn evening skies over Amman, or the spreading diagonal rays of the sun, which emphasise and awaken the colours — the dark reds, ochres and rich browns — of the rolling lands of the Jordanian plateau. It is these skies, skies which may have lasted only minutes before their beauty changed, that give us an insight into the depths of Duwaik's talent.

It is unfortunate, therefore, that "The Mountain Girl" should have been hung so close to one of these landscapes, for comparison becomes inevitable. Although both were painted at the same date, they seem to bear no relationship with each other. In contrast to Duwaik's normal vitality, the bedouin girl in the green dress stands static and emotionless. The sky, which conveniently haloes her head, and the slobby patches of background, look like the sky and landscape of someone who has never had time to look at these things properly, and has painted them as he thinks they should be. But this is something which Duwaik, in his other works, shows to patently untrue, as he has obviously really been aware of and responded to these scenes.

Duwaik's earlier portrayals of his culture are much more successful. The portrayal of two bedouin women talking is a sensitive study: bodies leaning syntactically together, faces lit from below. And although their eyes are not clearly seen, we are aware that one of the women is talking but not looking, while the other is listening and looking intently.

Another image that works well is that of three doves nesting warm, sleepy and white in a jerrican and an old earthenware pot. The jug silhouetted against the night sky in an open window gives a surreal touch to the scene.

Lithographs make up a large portion of the exhibition, and perhaps among the best is a 1977 print of "Hebron", where, amidst the atmosphere of the real city, an arch is seen through arch, the narrow street turning chequered with the light and shade.

But perhaps one of the most important facts to emerge from this retrospective is the deep and steady influence Duwaik's art has had, and is still exerting, over the younger artists. For these, his prints of the prancing bull, the arched and fearful head of an Arabian stallion, can be seen in the origins of Adnan Yehya's intricate drawings, while many others have taken their inspiration from Duwaik's softer impressionistic scenes of the small prancing horse dwarfed by the endless desert, his many bedouin faces. If it continues to take their lead from Duwaik, they will find themselves producing, like him, good and very valid art.

Prices range from JD20 to JD220.

NATIONAL NEWS BRIEFS

79,000 non-Jordanian workers

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (J.T.) — Ministry of Justice statistics show that 78,949 male and female Arab and foreign workers were working in Jordan by the end of last month, Al Ra'i newspaper reported today. The statistics showed that Arab workers totalled 64,641; Asian workers 11,730, and European workers 2,284. Seventy-five per cent of the Arab workers were Egyptians, the report said.

Young female foreigners banned

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (J.T.) — Al Ra'i newspaper said today it had learned that the government has decided not to allow the importation of female foreign workers and maids who are below 40 years of age.

Berlin mayor departs

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (Petra) — Berlin Mayor Heinrich Lommer left Amman today at the end of a short visit to Jordan. During the visit Mr. Lommer held talks with a number of Jordanian officials on increasing cooperation between West Berlin and Jordan in regional planning, civil defence and environmental protection. He also toured archaeological sites in Jordan.

Asfour sees French, Swedish envoys

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (Petra) — Minister of Industry and Trade Walid Asfour today conferred separately with the ambassadors of France and Sweden to Jordan, Mr. Claud Harel and Mr. Sten Daniel Stromholm. They discussed means of promoting cooperation in economic and trade spheres.

Co-op union chief here

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (J.T.) — Arab Cooperative Union Secretary General Qais Al Shraydeh arrived in Amman today to participate in a meeting of the general secretariat of the union due to begin here tomorrow. The secretariat will discuss the union's bylaws, and draw up a budget, during its two-day meeting.

2 French information seminars

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (J.T.) — The Jordanian government has received invitation from the French Ministry of External Affairs to participate in two seminars for senior officials in September. Al Ra'i newspaper said today. The first seminar will deal with indicators of electronic information programming on information systems, and the second will consider the influence of information systems on the development of programmed administration in official and public departments.

Kuwait petrochems conference set

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (J.T.) — The Ministry of Industry and Trade will participate in an Arab petrochemicals conference which will start in Kuwait on Saturday, a report in the local press said today. Mr. Ibrahim Qaish from the industry department at the ministry will leave for Kuwait on Friday to participate in the conference.

Zarqa chamber studies economy

ZARQA, Nov. 18 (Petra) — The Zarqa Chamber of Commerce has embarked on a field study of the economic situation in Zarqa District. According to chamber Director Ibrahim Takiuddin, the survey is designed to identify the activities of various companies and business concerns, as well as agencies covering transport, industry, tourism, insurance, real estate and advertising, as well as the number of people employed in these pursuits.

Steps set to promote culture

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (Petra) — Jordan Academy of Arabic President Abdul Karim Khalifa returned to Amman today after participating in a meeting in Tunis on international cooperation in promoting Arab and Islamic culture. The meeting, which was organised by the Arab League Educational, Cultural and Scientific Organisation, was devoted to subjects pertaining to the propagation of Arab and Islamic culture. During the four-day meeting, participants recommended that Arab schools and higher institutes of learning be established abroad to promote this cultural goal. They also agreed to establish a special foundation to promote Arab language and culture and a fund, to be sponsored by Arab countries, to finance this project, Dr. Khalifa said.

Zarqa teams collect for needy

ZARQA, Nov. 18 (Petra) — The Awqaf department here is setting up four committees to raise financial and in kind donations to needy families and Zarqa District students wishing to continue their higher studies, department Director Khalil Bataineh announced here today. Two of these committees, he said, will be operating in Zarqa and Rusafa, one will be set up in Birein and the fourth in the Azraq region. According to Mr. Bataineh, the donations will be distributed on the Prophet Mohammad's birthday anniversary in January 1982.

Majali in UAE for UNU meeting

ABU DHABI, Nov. 18 (Petra) — University of Jordan President Abdul Salam Al Majali arrived here today to attend the meetings of the United Nations University board, which will open on Friday. Dr. Majali, who is chairman of the Tokyo-based university's board of directors, said that the board will discuss the university's plan for the coming five years. The holding of the board meeting in an Arab state has a special significance and it underlines the United Arab Emirates' deep concern for world economic and scientific developments, Dr. Majali said.

Boycott meeting venue changed

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (Petra) — The Jordanian government has received a memorandum from the Arab League office for the boycott of Israel informing it of a change of venue for the office's 46th meeting. The meeting, which was to have been held in Tunis, will now be held in Damascus on Dec. 12, the memo said. Arab boycott officers will discuss at the meeting a number of subjects that will include, among others, the status of blacklisted foreign companies.

JD 17,000 for students' efforts

IRBID, Nov. 18 (Petra) — The department of education here announced today that it has allocated JD 17,000 to help schools in the governorate carry out voluntary projects. The schools involved are: Nu'aymeh, 'Inbeh, Samour, Bila and Jufa. The term voluntary refers to students' involvement in offering public services to their villages, the announcement said. Meanwhile, 'Irjan Municipality in Ajloun District said today that it has started work on a primary school of 21 classrooms, that will accommodate 600 students. The project is expected to cost JD 30,000.

Popular rally declares support for Palestinian mass uprising

By Samira Kavar
Special to the Jordan Times

AMMAN, Nov. 18 — About 400 people attending a popular rally at the Professional Associations Complex this afternoon in solidarity with the current popular uprising in the occupied Arab territories unanimously decided to address a memorandum to the upcoming Arab summit conference in Fez.

Master of ceremonies Dr. Abdul Aziz Al Haj Ahmad announced at the end of the rally that its preparatory committee would prepare the memorandum on the basis of an 18-point open message from nationalist and popular groupings in the occupied territories to the Fez summit conference, a six-point statement issued today by the general secretariat of popular groupings in Jordan and the speeches made at this afternoon's

Sheikh Abdul Hamid stressed the importance of the role played by the unarmed populace of the West Bank and Gaza in foiling Israeli-U.S. plans to liquidate the Palestinian cause, and praised their sacrifices in withstanding the hardships of occupation, collective punishment, imprisonment and torture.

Dr. Farhan hailed the will for struggle and the determination for victory embodied by all Arab citizens as the only hope for a brighter future that would bring victory to the Arabs. He said that the present phase in Arab history is characterised by an active flow of Zionist hatred against the Arabs, manifesting itself in a continuous series of acts of belligerence and barbarism, beginning with the massacre of Deir Yassin and culminating in the raid against Iraq's nuclear plant and the provocative Israeli overflights of Saudi Arabia.

a popular uprising against the Israelis. He paid tribute to the citizens participating in the West Bank popular uprising as the "real guardians of the land of Palestine until its liberation."

Jordanian Bar Association President Suleiman Al Hadidi, Mr. Madanat, Mr. Kamel and Mrs. Naffa' all expressed regret that more official Arab support was not being given to the mass Palestinian uprising. Mere "slogans and rhetoric" without suitable action to implement them were useless, they said.

Each of them criticised the eight-point Saudi peace initiative as an inadequate basis for a Middle East solution, saying that its timing might split Arab ranks.

They also criticised the U.S.-Israeli strategic "alliance," the U.S. military manoeuvres in Egypt and other parts of the Arab World, and the presence of U.S.

rally. Speakers at the rally were Sheikh Abdul Hamid Al Sa'ih, Dr. Hamad Al Farhan, Mr. Suleiman Al Hadidi, Mr. Issa Madanat, Mr. Rayiq Kamel and Mrs. Emily Naffa'. All the speakers praised the "heroic resistance" of the Palestinian people inside and outside the occupied lands against the Israeli occupation, and called for increased Arab support for this resistance.

Dr. Farhan said he regretted the fact that the present historical phase is also characterised by official Arab stands that are "weak, vague, insipid and in contradiction with the actual practices of Arab leaders." Dr. Farhan said that at a time when Israeli actions are becoming increasingly belligerent and official Arab stands take on an even more "insipid" character, a "ray of hope" shines forth from the occupied lands in the shape of military bases in Egypt, Sudan, Somalia and Oman.

They called for action to consider the United States an enemy, and the deployment of the "weapons" of oil and financial deposits against it.

Each speaker asserted that the present situation requires that the Arabs increase their intrinsic strength as a basis for finding a just, comprehensive Middle East solution that would guarantee the Palestinians their national rights under their sole legitimate representative, the Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO).

They reiterated the full support of popular Jordanian bodies and groupings for the Palestinian uprising.

Cabinet appoints teams for Arab aides' sessions

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (Petra) — The cabinet today formed Jordan's delegation to the meetings of the Arab Organisation for Agricultural Development, which will begin on Dec. 12 in Tripoli, Libya at ministerial level.

The ministers will discuss, among other things, the organisation's budget and its programmes. The Jordanian delegation will be led by Agriculture Minister Marwan Dudin.

The cabinet also today formed Jordan's delegation to the extraordinary session of Arab interior ministers which is to be held in Riyadh in February of 1982.

The Arab interior ministers will draw up statutes for the Arab interior ministers' council. Jordan's delegation will be led by Interior Minister Suleiman Arar.

The cabinet, which met in regular session under the chairmanship of Prime Minister Mudar Badran, also formed Jordan's delegation to a meeting of Arab ministers of housing and reconstruction which will open in Algiers on Dec. 2. The delegation will be led by Minister of Municipal and Rural Affairs and the Environment Hassan Al Momani.

Ministers at the Algiers meeting will be discussing the establishment of a centre to work for the restoration of archaeological sites in Jerusalem. They will also consider holding seminars on Arab integration of standards used in construction materials and contracting.

In another cabinet decision, Mr.

Mithqal Al Fawwaz was appointed mayor of the municipality of Sabha and Subhuyeh.

Jordanian firm agrees to buy 2 cargo ships from Arab co.

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (J.T.) — The Jordan Shipping Lines Company has agreed to buy two 14,000-tonne cargo ships from the Arab United Shipping Company, the Jordan Times has learned.

Jordan Shipping Lines Company Chairman Ali Khasawneh told the Jordan Times that he had signed the agreement to purchase the two general-purpose cargo carriers during a visit to Kuwait, from which he returned yesterday. He declined to give the price of the purchase, which he said would be announced later.

Mr. Khasawneh, who is also director general of the Arab Potash Company, said the two ships, which will arrive in Jordan within two weeks—one from Kuwait and the other from Venezuela—are "exactly what we want." The ships, to be operated on lines between Aqaba and European ports, can be used to carry bulk, containerised or crated cargo, he said.

The next step for the Jordan Shipping Lines Company, Mr. Khasawneh said, is to seek large carriers for bulk exports of Jordanian raw phosphates, potash and processed fertilisers. The company will look for these ships on the international market, he said, noting that annual exports of these materials are expected to reach 7 million tonnes when the Jordan Fertiliser Industry Company's Aqaba processing plant starts full production. This is now scheduled for 1984.

RSS, Yarmouk become full members of science group

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (J.T.) — The Royal Scientific Society (RSS) and Yarmouk University have been accepted as full members of the Sweden-based International Foundation for Sciences, which recently concluded its third general meeting in Thailand, according to RSS Director General Albert Butros.

He said the RSS and Yarmouk

University have held secondary membership for the past two years.

Speaking upon returning to Amman from the meeting today, Dr. Butros said participants in the week-long meeting reviewed 12 working papers, mostly dealing with the foundation's programmes, with the purpose of increasing its scientific activities. Agreement has been reached on amendments to the foundation's statutes to allow better chances for developing nations to take part in its management, he said.

During his stay in Thailand, Dr. Butros held talks with several international financial institutions on the possibility of financing for scientific research projects in Jordan. A number of these institutions have expressed willingness to offer Jordanian researchers financial assistance, Dr. Butros added.

The International Foundation for Sciences was established in 1972 with the purpose of encouraging scientific research and financing such programmes. To date the foundation has offered grants to 500 researchers around the world.

Crown Prince meets Lebanese Social Democratic Party team

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (J.T.) — His Royal Highness Crown Prince Hassan, the Regent, conferred at the royal court this morning with a visiting delegation representing the Lebanese Social Democratic Party, led by the party's secretary general, Mr. Munir Hamdan.

Mr. Hamdan handed a message to Prince Hassan from the party's leader Kamel Al Assad, who is also speaker of Lebanon's parliament. The message deals with the situation in Lebanon in general, and conditions in South Lebanon in particular.

The delegation briefed Prince Hassan on the grave situation in South Lebanon, and Israel's designs to swallow up that territory.

For his part, Crown Prince Hassan said that His Majesty King Hussein had often warned against Israel's attempts to impose its domination over the south of Lebanon.

Prime Minister Mudar Badran met the delegation in his office today. The delegation handed Mr. Badran a message from the party's leader.

At the meeting, discussion centred on developments in the Arab region in general, and in South Lebanon in particular.

The delegation came here in the course of a tour of Arab states to discuss the situation in South Lebanon. The meeting with Mr. Badran was attended by deputy Secretary of the National Consultative Council Walid Najdawi.

In an interview with Al Ra'i newspaper published today, Mr. Hamdan said that his party expects a new Israeli attack on Lebanon, and is requesting Arab countries to draw up joint strategy to confront Israeli aggression.

The Arab states ought to implement the Tunis summit conference's resolution calling for efforts to help the legitimate Lebanese authorities extend their control over all parts of the Lebanese soil, Mr. Hamdan said.

Mr. Hamdan and his delegation left this evening for Baghdad.

Pharmacists' confab to discuss situation in Israeli-occupied Arab territories

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (Petra) — The seventh Arab pharmacists' conference, due to be held in Amman from Nov. 23 - 25, will discuss the pharmaceutical situation in the occupied Arab territories and Israel's arbitrary measures against Arab pharmacists, aimed at forcing them to abandon their homeland, as well as Israel's changes in the Jordanian pharmacists' law in force in the occupied West Bank. Jordanian Pharmacists Association President Nizar Jardaneh announced at a press conference here today.

He said that participants in the three-day conference will hold separate seminars to discuss the pharmacists' profession in the Arab World and its future, Arab pharmaceutical industries, Arab legislation on pharmacy and pharmacy education. A total of 105 research papers will be reviewed, of which 34 will be submitted by the Jordanian participants, Mr. Jardaneh said.

During the conference a protocol on cooperation among Arab and Spanish pharmacists will be signed, and an exhibition of national Jordanian costumes will be held, he said. The programme also includes a visit to the front lines, Mr. Jardaneh added.

He said the Jordanian pharmacists' association will set up an exhibition to display medicines and drugs, most of them manufactured in the Arab World.

Taking part in the conference will be 800 Arab pharmacists. They will come from Jordan, Iraq, Tunisia, Syria and Egypt. Prior to the conference, the executive board of the Arab Pharmacists Union will hold a meeting.

Regent sees the front lines

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (Petra) — His Royal Highness Crown Prince Hassan, the Regent, today visited the front-line positions of the fourth Royal Mechanized Division.

Prince Hassan met with division commanders and was briefed on the troops' activities and responsibilities. He also watched military exercises, and later inspected a number of military positions.

Prince Hassan was accompanied on the inspection visit by several army commanders.

Club rally to test skill

AMMAN, Nov. 18 (J.T.) — The International Club of Young Diplomats is organising a car rally on Friday.

A club spokesman told the Jordan Times the rally, open to every diplomat in Jordan, will be a "test of skill, not speed."

He did not give any details of the event, but said an award-presentation ceremony would be held Friday evening at a local restaurant.

The spokesman urged "all those interested in taking part" in the rally to contact Mr. Karl-Heinz Kempen at the West German embassy here.

The male-female ratio

By Jawad Ahmad

ACCORDING TO statistics in Jordan, there are less females than males; approximately 48.5 per cent of the population are females and 51.5 per cent are males. Strict equality in number between the two sexes is not usually the case in most countries. One would expect to find that in most paternalistic societies males outnumber females.

just come out of wars. Deaths in war are usually male-specific. Thus, it reduces their number as was the case in Germany, the U.K., Philippines, Japan, etc. Yet, there is an emotional bias which gradually directs the choice of children so as to compensate the outnumbered sex and give it a chance to catch up and equalise.

ference for male children that reveals itself when determining the size of a family. If, for instance, a family begets girls, they will continue to try until they beget a boy. However, if they have boys with no girls, the urge to have a mixed children population is very much lower. Secondly, the infant mortality among females is higher than among males because of better medical care accorded to male children.

However, one must not deduce from this analysis that Jordan is a society which discriminates against females. With the rise in education, the increased urbanisation, the dependence on incomes from females in degrees equivalent to those of males will eventually abolish the preference for males. Eventually one would expect the difference in numbers to diminish.

According to the law of probability, there are people who are inclined to believe that the probability of having a boy or a girl by a pregnant woman is 50 per cent. This is not true. The probability of a woman giving birth to a boy is not equal to the probability of another woman doing the same thing. This depends on genetic and hereditary factors. The case in Jordan may be that genetic and hereditary factors favour the male population.

In the U.K., there was a heated discussion more than two years ago over how to solve the expected problem of marriage in 1995. According to a BBC programme, there will be extra one million eligible male bachelors in England who will not have compatible brides. This was the result of increased male births over females. It would be rather odd if in 1995, U.K.'s main import was brides. Otherwise, they will have to redefine the conditions of a happy marriage. For instance, postpone marriage age for men and decrease it for females. Thus, we will have lots of Lolita's marrying old-age professors.

American public perceptions of Middle Eastern countries

By Michael W. Suleiman

Following is the first part of major excerpts of a paper written by the author recently. Dr. Michael Suleiman is head of Political Science Department at Kansas State University, USA. The second part will appear in Saturday's Jordan Times.

The purpose of this paper is to present data concerning American attitudes, as reflected in public opinion polls, especially Gallup, NORC, and Harris, on various topics related to the Middle East and the peoples of that area. The time period stretches from the late 1930s to the present. It is hoped that this will provide an adequate time frame for proper analysis and sound conclusions. This survey will also enable us to compare and contrast the various polling agencies in terms of both the wording and the content of the questions. It is not claimed here that public opinion determines or greatly influences government policy or foreign affairs. In fact, available evidence seems to indicate the opposite conclusion, namely that "opinion follows policy" and/or that the government in office often attempts to manipulate the public. Nevertheless, attitudes are not easily or quickly changed. Furthermore, the existence of intense and widespread views on any issue, such as the Palestinian and Arab-Israeli conflicts, can set limits that policy-makers may violate only at the risk of popular and electoral displeasure. The study of public opinion trends concerning the Middle East is, therefore, pertinent and worthwhile.

American attitudes towards Arabs and Jews

It is a sad commentary on the whole Middle East situation as well as on American attitudes towards the main combatants that some American racist or anti-Semitic feelings and attitudes continue to be fairly widespread — with one basic difference. While in the 1930s and 1940s existent anti-Semitism was directed against Jews, it is today directed mostly against the Arabs. This is the startling but clear conclusion that follows from the available public opinion data, which is detailed below.

In 1938, 58 per cent of the American public believed that the "persecution of the Jews in Europe" was entirely (10 per cent) or partly (48 per cent) their own fault. The following results from a 1939 survey look strange and frightening today. Which of the following statements most nearly represents your general opinion on the Jewish question?

In the United States the Jews have the same standing as any other people and they should be treated in all ways exactly as any other Americans.	38.9%
Jews are in some ways distinct from other Americans, but they make respected and useful citizens so long as they don't try to mingle socially where they are not wanted.	10.8%
Jews have some different business methods and, therefore, some measures should be taken to prevent Jews from getting too much power in the business world.	31.8%
We should make it a policy to deport Jews from this country to some new homeland as fast as it can be done without inhumanity.	10.1%
Don't know.	6.5%
Refused to answer.	3.0%
Total	101.1%

"Percentages add to more than 100 because some respondents gave more than one answer".

Numerous questions tapped attitudes concerning "power" in business and in government. In general about one-third of the respondents thought Jews had too much political power, whereas 50-60 per cent believed Jews had too much influence in the business world. Also, Jewish exiles from Nazi-occupied Europe were seeking a safe refuge, including the United States. Yet when Americans were asked in 1942: "Should we allow a larger number of Jewish exiles from Germany to come to the United States to live?" 77 per cent said no. In 1946, almost the same percentage (72 per cent) disapproved of President Truman's plan to ask Congress to allow more Jews and other European refugees into the United States than was allowed under prevailing law.

Such sentiments are generally not present among Americans today. In fact, the American image of Jews and Israelis is today quite positive. For instance, a study of social science high school teachers in southern California found that a study of social science high school teachers in southern California found that teachers generally thought Jews and Israelis to be good fighters, courageous, hard-working, and development-oriented. Similar findings were obtained from a larger survey covering five states, including California.

While American images of Jews and Israelis have changed for the better, the image of Arabs among Americans has suffered a change for the worse. The best illustration of current American images of both Arabs and Israelis, clearly showing the contrast, was obtained by a 1975 study in response to the question: "Does each word apply more to the Arabs or more to the Israelis?"

	More to Israelis	More to Arabs	To both equally	To neither	Don't know
Peaceful	41%	7%	9%	25%	19%
Honest	39	6	13	18	25
Intelligent	39	8	26	5	21
"Like Americans"	50	5	8	17	21
Friendly	46	6	15	11	23
Backward	6	47	7	15	25
Underdeveloped	9	47	10	10	25
Poor	21	34	9	15	22
Greedy	9	41	20	7	23
Arrogant	11	37	19	7	26
Moderate	31	8	10	21	30
Developing	33	20	21	3	24
Barbaric	4	38	8	23	28

It might be added that American Jews, in addition to their strong support of Israel and perhaps mostly as a consequence of it, are definitely the most hostile in their attitudes towards Arabs. Thus, Jewish Americans, in their responses to the above list of words, were in every instance about twice as likely as other religious groups to attribute the good qualities to the Israelis and the bad qualities to the Arabs.

As was noted earlier, there is some debate as to whether public images and attitudes "cause" or "determine" policy or whether policy determination comes first and that in turn colours a people's attitudes and images towards another nation. The evidence does indicate, however, that if a government has friendly relations with another country, people's attitudes toward that country become friendly and their image of it is positive.

Apparently, the American public is aware of the importance to U.S. interests of cooperation with both Israel and the Arab countries. In the 1950s when a question about this was asked, comparable percentages (50-70 per cent) of the American people thought it was "very important" or "fairly important" for the United States to cooperate closely with Israel and with the Arab countries.

Attitudes toward Israel and "the Arabs" have clearly been influenced by American perceptions of cooperativeness, friendliness, or hostility on their part toward the United States, and by whether or not each group has threatened U.S. interests in the Middle East. A Table shows American attitudes towards Egypt and Israel since 1956. It shows a polarisation in American attitudes occurring in the 1960s. Thus, the proportion of those indicating lack of knowledge or refusing to respond dropped by around 10 percentage points between the 1956 and 1966 surveys. The data also clearly indicate a slight but definite change in sentiment in recent years against Israel and, to a lesser extent, in favour of Egypt.

The shift has probably taken place as a result of perceived change in the Egyptian government's attitudes towards the United States and in Egypt's role in the Middle East. Although President Anwar Sadat came to power in 1970, it took him a few years to stabilise his power base internally and to persuade American policymakers of his interest in "solving" the Middle East problem along lines acceptable to the United States. After the 1973 war several factors combined to facilitate a change in American policy. Among these were Arab possession of a large percentage of available oil supplies and their ability to control the sale or non-sale of that oil to countries viewed as hostile to their cause; fear of instability in the Middle East area that might be combined with threats to conservative or moderate Arab regimes friendly to the United States; fear of a nuclear confrontation with the Soviet Union being triggered by a regional conflict; concern over disagreement and possible conflict with America's European allies over support for Israel; and concern over rising energy costs and oil imports and the concomitant trade imbalance with its deleterious effect on the value of the dollar. Sadat's "reasonableness" was warmly welcomed, therefore, and a push to resolve the Egyptian-Israeli conflict began. Realising that it was not possible to reach a meaningful agreement that dealt only with this one issue, the United States sought a general "framework" for peace in the Middle East — one that would include some movement at least on the main issue, namely Palestine and the Palestinians. When the Israelis began to resist proposals along these lines, there were a number of American-Israeli "confrontations" or threatened confrontations. Israeli officials threatened to "unleash the Jewish lobby" on several occasions, and American officials generally backed off from these confrontations and tried other approaches more acceptable to the Israelis. In any case, as a result of such public disagreements, more Americans began to view Egypt (31 per cent) rather than Israel (27 per cent) as the party working harder for peace in the Middle East. Concomitantly, American attitudes towards Israel became slightly less friendly while those toward Egypt became slightly more favourable.

Sympathy

Another table presents the results of surveys in which the American people were asked to indicate their sympathies toward the protagonists in the Middle East. The question is most often phrased as follows: "In the Middle East situation, are your sympathies more with Israel or more with the Arab nations?" Such a question limits the choices for the respondents and tends to inflate the figures showing "sympathy" when such feelings may not truly exist. Thus, when a third choice such as "or don't you have any strong feelings either way?" is explicitly made available, support for both parties declines.

What do the results tell us? First, it is clear that sympathy for Jews and the state of Israel is generally fairly high throughout the 32-year period. At the same time, sympathy for the Arabs or Arab states is found among a very small portion of the American adult population. In fact, the largest sympathy "vote" was recorded during the struggle in Palestine just before the state of Israel was created. A third observation based on the data is that a substantial proportion of Americans (approaching 50 per cent and often exceeding it) either do not know much about the situation, do not care about either party, or sympathise with both sides equally. In fact, until the 1967 war, at least 49 per cent, and more often a majority, of Americans did not display partisan sympathy. This withdrawal or withholding of sympathy for the two sides manifests itself when there is a deadlock in the negotiations between them and/or a breakdown of efforts to achieve a settlement with active U.S. involvement.

Results also show that American sympathy for Israel is highest during periods of war, especially if the U.S. government is viewed as openly or tacitly supportive of Israeli actions. This was the case, for instance during the June 1967 war, the "war of attrition" in 1969 and the 1973 war. It was also the case during and after the Israeli invasion of southern Lebanon. Finally, we note that after the establishment of the state of Israel (with decisive American support), sympathy for the Arabs declined and continued to hover around 6-7 per cent until the period following the 1973 war. Since 1977, Egyptian-American rapprochement has progressed rather steadily and with it has come a slight increase in the number of Americans sympathetic to the "Arab nations." There is little doubt that President Anwar Sadat's dramatic visit to Jerusalem in November 1977 and the continuing Egyptian-Israeli-American negotiations on the Middle East have persuaded the public that Sadat and Egypt "want peace in the Middle East." The "reasonableness" of Sadat (i.e. his willingness to accept American suggestions) and the "intransigence" of Israel (i.e. resistance to U.S. suggestions), as displayed and reported on several occasions since 1975, have certainly contributed to a decline in American sympathy for Israel and a concomitant mild increase in sympathy for "the Arabs."

American sympathy for the two parties is obviously influenced by several factors. We have already mentioned war in the Middle East, the prospects of a peaceful settlement, and the attitude of the American government. Two other factors may be cited. One is the energy crisis, i.e. American dependence on oil from the Arab World, which will be discussed in more detail later. The other is the ability to manipulate the sympathies of the public through the use of the various media of communication. This is not the place to detail how the media have portrayed events and peoples in the Middle East.

Grave danger

THE CASE of Ziad Abu 'Ein, the Palestinian youth now in a Chicago prison awaiting extradition to Israel, poses the gravest danger the American system has ever faced.

According to Michael Saba, a leading Arab-American, representing the American-Arab anti-Discrimination Committee, U.S. policies have been characterised by "exceptionalism" as far as Israel is concerned. This exceptionalism has allowed the Zionist lobby in the United States to penetrate the executive and legislative branches of the American system of government. Examples are numerous, but suffice it to cite the fact that only Israel is allowed to use American weapons, supplied for defensive purposes only, in bombing innocent Arabs in Beirut and destroying a nuclear reactor in Baghdad.

The extradition of Ziad Abu 'Ein to Israel, if it takes place, would be the first time that the Zionist lobby has had its way with the judiciary branch of the United States system, which so far has refused to hand over to Britain an Irish activist accused of being a member of the Irish Republican Army, despite an extradition treaty between the U.S. and Britain.

The Ziad Abu 'Ein battle must be won, if only to save the American system from collapse. President Reagan and Secretary of State Alexander Haig, in whose hands lies the fate of the Palestinian youth, must be made to understand exactly what the extradition means to their own country.

ARAB PRESS COMMENTARY

What moves world conscience?

AL RA'I: The news about the uprising of our people has spread beyond the occupied territories. This uprising declares and expresses the oath every Palestinian has taken to hold on to his land and identity and to insist on his determination to confront occupation in every way he can.

The steadfastness of our people in the occupied territories has found response in the popular rally which will be held today at the Professional Associations Complex to express support for the struggling Palestinian people who have always found real support in Jordan's people and leadership.

The uprising has transformed from a form of protest to become a movement of resistance by the masses of our people who confronted Israeli forces with sticks and stones to prevent them from taking their lands. Our people also confronted the so-called "village associations," fabricated by the occupation authorities in order to drive a wedge among our steadfast people and to create an alternative leadership to the PLO.

What is taking place in the occupied territories is a brave effort by the Palestinian people to defend themselves, their lands and their very existence. They are facing barbaric repressive measures by the occupation authorities.

The Israeli practices have surmounted those of the Nazis. The Israelis are forcibly usurping lands, destroying houses, imposing collective punishments and firing bullets at unarmed people.

Our handuffed people are breaking their chains with their bare hands. Their only weapon is their faith in that resistance is the only way to salvation and that it is the only way to move that world conscience which does not respond to the moans of the people but to their heroic resistance.

It is true that the international Tripartite Committee had condemned Israel's confiscation of Arab territories; but condemnation is no longer effective or adequate. It is high time the international community practised a real role in curbing the continued Israeli aggression. If the international community does not shoulder this urgent responsibility, then hopes to restore peace and security to the region will remain an illusion.

The silent devil

AL DUSTOUR: The Israeli occupation authorities are committing acts of terrorism and crimes against our steadfast people in the occupied territories. They are closing universities; arresting hundreds of people; oppressing mayors and dignitaries; destroying houses and displacing their owners. These criminal actions could only be committed by a fascist and racist regime that inherited all Nazi characteristics and philosophy. It is only natural that such actions are committed by such a regime. But what is not natural is for the so-called "civilised world" to keep silent on Israel's actions and crimes against the Palestinian people who seem to be considered outside the human circle and are thus unworthy even of the demonstrations of protest in Washington, or New York, or London, or Paris calling for protecting and preserving whales and eagles and other animal and bird species threatened with extinction through human follies.

Israel is imposing collective punishment on the Palestinian people. It is destroying their houses and throwing them into the wilderness and shooting children who are staging peaceful demonstrations. The Palestinian people are not considered by the civilised world to be equal to some Soviet dissident called "Zacharov" whose issue is highlighted in every paper and magazine calling for his release and to be permitted to emigrate to Israel.

What is the secret behind the silence and blindness of world conscience to all the crimes committed by Israel against the Palestinian people? Why do Western people stage demonstrations in support of a Kampuchean or Vietnamese refugee but do not do so for the Palestinian people? Why does the pope issue statements of support for the Polish people and does not denounce the Israeli barbaric actions?

Zionism reminds the world of the Vatican's silence over what it terms as Nazi crimes against Jews before and after World War II.

African states try to break South African economic hold

BLANTYRE, Malawi, Nov. 18 (A.P.)—Nine of the world's poorest nations begin talks on how to break South Africa's economic stranglehold Thursday in Malawi, the only African country with diplomatic links to the white-ruled republic.

Cabinet ministers of the year-old Southern African Development Coordination Conference (SADCC) will meet against a background of mounting economic troubles for the member states—Angola, Botswana, Lesotho, Malawi, Mozambique, Swaziland, Zambia and Zimbabwe.

Two of the nine states, Angola and Mozambique, are fighting civil wars. Most face widespread shortages of staples like corn and wheat, as their populations grow at an average three per cent a year.

All are spending up to three times as much of their precious foreign reserves on oil as they were five years ago. And all are heavily dependent on South Africa for food, as well as heavy machinery for mines, farms and factories.

Zambia and Zimbabwe both use South African railroads and ports for most of their trade, while Mozambique gets most of its foreign exchange in remittances from thousands of migrant workers in South African gold mines, and the sale of electric power from the giant Cahora Bassa dam.

The conference is being held as SADCC nations accuse South Africa of trying to destabilise the region. Most of the nine support black nationalist guerrillas seeking to overthrow the white minority South African government.

Zimbabwe Prime Minister Robert Mugabe claims South African saboteurs blew up strategic road and rail bridges between Zimbabwe and the Mozambique port of Beira, damaging an oil pipeline that next month was to begin pumping all Zimbabwe's oil, previously imported through South Africa.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 18 (R)—European Economic Community (EEC) representatives reached agreement early today on a tough set of proposals for a new accord on the international textiles trade.

Diplomatic sources said the joint bargaining position included measures for cutting back EEC imports of cheap textiles from Third World countries like Hong Kong, Taiwan and South Korea.

It also contained safeguards to prevent sudden surges in imports from disrupting the EEC market.

Talks on renewing the Multifibre Agreement (MFA) were due to start in Geneva later today and British Deputy Foreign Secretary Humphrey Atkins told reporters that the negotiations were likely to be protracted.

But he insisted that the EEC position was negotiable and that developing nations, who have said they will resist any proposal imposing greater curbs on their textile exports, would not reject it out of hand.

The current, multifibre arrangement, a pact seeking to regulate the textile trade between industrialised and Third World countries, expires at the end of this year.

The developing countries, with cheap labour costs and overheads, want to maintain their access to markets in the EEC and United States which they can supply with huge quantities of textiles at competitive prices.

But the EEC's older textile industry, which has lost a quarter of its workforce since 1973, has been clamouring for greater protection against floods of cheap imports.

In the past eight years 800,000 of the European Economic Community's three million textile and clothing workers have lost their jobs, mainly because of cheap imports from the Third World.

The countries most under pressure—Britain, France and Italy—are determined to stop the rapid decline of their industries but developing countries are strongly opposing any moves to restrict their markets.

This is the issue which will dominate discussions among importing and exporting countries as they open talks on a new Multifibre Arrangement (MFA) in Geneva today.

Five out of every 10 men's suits, seven out of 10 pairs of jeans and eight out of 10 women's slacks sold in Britain are now imported, according to Neil Kearney, spokesman for the National Union of Tailors and Garment Workers.

He told reporters imports from countries like Hong Kong, South Korea and Taiwan were cutting jobs in Britain's textile and clothing industry at the rate of 30,000 a year.

He said 93 per cent of the British workers affected were women, mainly in the economically-depressed regions of north-east England, Scotland and Northern Ireland.

With similar problems in their own declining textile industries, France and Italy want big import cuts.

Jean-Pierre Cot, France's minister responsible for development cooperation with the Third World, told reporters his government must take account of its obligations to its own workers.

"In countries like France, which have an ageing textile industry, it is necessary to allow time for structural changes in those industries," he said during a visit to the International Labour Organisation (ILO).

Other EEC countries like West Germany, the Netherlands and Denmark are in favour of keeping the community market relatively open.

Mr. Kearney said it was easier for those countries to take such a line because they had already allowed their own garment industries to run down.

Diplomatic sources said the EEC policy agreed early today appeared to be a victory for member states favouring increased protectionism, such as France, Italy and Britain, over traditional advocates of free trade like West Germany and the Netherlands.

British Trade Minister Peter Rees, expressing satisfaction at the outcome, said compromise proposals from the EEC's executive commission had been toughened up during the talks.

The sources said that under the EEC proposals big exporters from the Third World would have their quotas cut but others would be allowed a one per cent increase.

OECD predicts decline in economic growth

PARIS, Nov. 18 (R)—Economic growth in the world's major industrial economies will be lower in the second half of this year than previously forecast, according to officials at the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD).

They said the OECD now estimates the rise will be less than last July's official forecast of one per cent. "Growth will still be positive but only just," one official said.

Officials denied a British press report that revised OECD figures painted an alarming picture of a worldwide economic slump which could put nearly 30 million people out of work in its 24 member countries by the end of next year.

"The outlook is still for record unemployment, sluggish growth and delayed recovery from recession, but there have been no major changes in our previous forecasts," an official said.

Unemployment by the end of next year would be slightly higher than the earlier forecast of 26.5 million but nowhere near the 30 million predicted by Britain's Sunday Times, the officials said.

The officials said the latest unpublished estimates, prepared for a meeting here this week of senior officials from OECD countries, showed little change in next year's estimates.

They said the OECD group would recover slowly from recession next year and growth rates were still expected to average two per cent in the first half and three per cent in the second.

Inflation, still the major economic evil for most strong industrial nations, should fall a little faster than last July's prediction of an annual rate of 8.5 per cent by the end of 1982.

The officials said the Sunday Times report that the OECD had revised its previous expectations sharply downwards was not true.

They cited largely unchanged foreign exchange rates and national economic policies and few real changes in oil prices, excluding inflation, as the reasons for maintaining most of last July's forecasts.

LONDON EXCHANGE RATES

LONDON, Nov. 18 (R)—Share prices closed generally easier after drifting lower throughout in quiet trading, dealers said. At 1500 the F.T. index was down 4.4 at 503.9.

Early interest centred on the market debut of money broker holding company Exco, which opened at 185p, a premium of 45p over the offer price, before easing to 176p in active trading. Other equities closed with falls of between 2p and 14p after opening mark ups met no support, dealers said.

Gold shares rallied with the bullion price to close with gains of up to 100 cents, while U.S. and Canadian shares were mixed.

Electricals retreated after opening firmer. GEC was down 8p at 729p after 744p, while Racal fell 6p to 395p. Other leaders had Unilever down 7p at 628p and falls of between 2p and 6p in ICI, Blue Circle, Boots, Bowater, Glaxo and Hawker Siddeley.

Beecham returned to the overnight 228p following half year results, while in retailers, W.H. Smith was unchanged at 162p also after interims. Oils eased from a firm opening, with Shell down 2p at 362p ahead of tomorrow's results.

Government bonds fluctuated to close little changed from yesterday's close after light overseas buying led prices to recover from lower openings, dealers said.

Chun-Ho retains WBC title

SEOUL, Nov. 18 (R) — South Korean Kim Chul-Ho retained his World Boxing Council (WBC) super flyweight title in the city of Pusan tonight when the referee stopped his defence against Ryoetsu Maruyama of Japan in the ninth round.

The 27-year-old challenger suffered a cut over his right eye in the fifth round of the scheduled 15-round bout, and he began bleeding profusely from the nose from the eighth.

Maruyama's face was soaked in blood by the time Mexican referee Reyes Solis intervened to consult the ring doctor, who forbade the challenger to continue. Solis signalled the end of the bout one minute and 12 seconds into the ninth round.

There were no knockdowns, but both fighters displayed tremendous power and spectators at the 3,000-seat Kudok gymnasium were on their feet cheering throughout.

The underdog Maruyama harassed the champion with effective and stinging jabs in the early rounds, but Kim scored frequently with strong counterpunches. In the sixth, the Japanese staggered Kim with a superb combination to the chin, but the Korean replied with a punishing body attack of his own.

All three judges had the champion ahead on points at the end. Kim said afterwards the unorthodox style of his opponent kept him at bay in the early rounds and his punching power was "something to be reckoned with." But he said Maruyama could not match him in speed and determination.

Schmidt of Philadelphia Phillies elected most valuable player

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (A.P.) — Slugger Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies was elected the National League's most valuable player for the second straight year by the Baseball Writers Association of America yesterday.

Schmidt, an overwhelming choice in the balloting, became only the third National League player to win consecutive MVP awards.

A unanimous winner of the award last year when he also was named the World Series MVP, Schmidt received 21 of a possible 24 first-place votes and 321 points from the BBWAA panel, consisting of two writers from each NL city.

Like Schmidt, runner-up Andre Dawson of Montreal was named on all 24 ballots, receiving two first-place votes and 215 points. The only other player to get a first-place vote was Rookie pitcher Fernando Valenzuela of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who was named the NL's Cy Young award winner by the BBWAA last week. The only other consecutive winners of the NL MVP award were Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs in 1958-59 and Joe Morgan of the Cincinnati Reds in 1975-76.

Roger Maris (1960-1961), Mickey Mantle (1956-1957), Yogi Berra (1954-1955), Hal Newhouser (1944-1945) and Jimmy Fox (1932-1933) won consecutive MVP awards in the American League.

Dennis Lillee suspended

MELBOURNE, Nov. 18 (R) — Australian fast bowler Dennis Lillee has been suspended for two one-day matches for kicking Pakistan captain Javed Miandad during the first cricket test in Perth on Monday.

The ban imposed today by the Australian Cricket Board (ACB) covers Sunday's World Series cup match against Pakistan here and Tuesday's cup clash with the West Indies in Sydney.

Immediately the suspension was announced Pakistan team manager Ijaz Butt said he was "glad something had been done" and added that as far as he and the Pakistan Cricket Board were concerned "the matter is now closed."

ACB official Bob Merriman imposed the two-match ban after hearing an appeal from the Perth test umpires Tony Crafter and Mel Johnson against a $200 fine levied by Lillee's teammates.

Lillee was fined after the incident on the fourth day when batsman Miandad bumped into the fast bowler when completing a run.

Merriman, co-ordinator of the board's cricket sub-committee, quashed the fine, which he said was not sufficient and which did not conform with normal standards for the sport.

♦ AKQ105 ♠ Q854 ♦ K103 ♠ J
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ Pass Pass ?

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ 6 ♠ K10752 ♦ 10432 ♠ 765
Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What action do you take?
A.—You have three HCP, and even the weak response of one no trump requires six. You are not thrilled with your singleton spade, but there is nothing you can do to improve the contract that does not run a prohibitive risk.

What action do you take?
A.—Although you have a very fine spade suit, you should not lose sight of the possibility that your best spot might be in a red suit, or even one club doubled. Also, you have a good hand, and a mere overall doesn't come close to doing it justice. Since a reopening overall can be made on sketchy values, good hands are normally shown by starting with a double.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ 954 ♠ QJ762 ♠ 8 ♦ 10432
Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What action do you take?
A.—Although this hand also contains only three HCP, it revalues to seven points in support of hearts. Your singleton increases in value to three points, and you must upgrade your trump honors by one point. Don't even consider any action other than a raise to two hearts.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ 104 ♠ K87632 ♦ Q102 ♠ J9
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Hearts might well prove to be the best contract, but you run a considerable risk if you introduce the suit—partner, with shortness in hearts, will almost surely pass, fearing a misfit, when the hand could play better in either of his suits. We suggest you pass two diamonds. However, no demerits will be given if you took a preference to two spades—partner must have a five-card spade suit on this auction and may even have six.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ 6 ♠ K10975 ♦ 10432 ♠ J109
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—By making a reverse bid, partner has shown a strong hand with at least five hearts and four spades. You have golden values. Your hand is worth eight points in support of hearts and partner's bidding denotes the equivalent of some 18. A timid preference to three hearts, which promises no values at all, hardly expresses the usefulness of your hand—Jump to four hearts.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ 75 ♠ AK843 ♦ 108 ♠ K1043
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—You have opened a sub-minimum hand in third seat. Since partner is a passed hand, you can give up all thoughts of game. If you rebid two hearts, you confirm a full opening bid and run the risk of the auction getting too high. Pass. Partner must have a five-card suit for his two-level response.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

Danish marriages for West German citizenships

By Sten Stovall

COPENHAGEN — Hundreds of West German citizens who want to stay permanently in West Germany are flocking to Denmark to enter into marriages of convenience, often with West German prostitutes. Danish police say the influx is imposed mainly of Indians, Pakistanis and Africans. They are attracted by Denmark's simple marriage laws and the fact that pro forma ceremonies insure them West German citizenships.

Whether by design or through bureaucratic inefficiency, couples wanting to wed in West Germany must wait up to nine months before taking their vows. Consequently, the visas of aliens wanting to marry in West Germany often expire before permission is granted. But Danish law allows couples to marry once they have been in the country for three days. This is luring aliens to Denmark and has given rise to a black market dealing in illegal wedding tours, police said. West German taxis have smuggled aliens into southern Denmark with women and children posing as the family members, police say. Denmark's convenient marriage code is also attracting legitimate couples from West Germany in search of a quick marriage. Government sources believe their numbers will not be reduced by planned amendments to Denmark's wedding laws. A person wanting to wed today in Denmark does not have to produce proof of identity or previous marital status. But government sources say such documentation will soon be demanded of all non-nationals wanting to marry in the country. Denmark's convenient marriage code is also attracting legitimate couples from West Germany in search of a quick marriage. Government sources believe their numbers will not be reduced by planned amendments to Denmark's wedding laws. These couples include American and Canadian soldiers based in West Germany who come to Denmark to marry, tourist board sources say. To meet rising demand, West Germany's state rail authority now offers package wedding tours to the picturesque port of Svendborg. Costing around 800 deutsche marks ($350), the package includes return train tickets for two, three-day hotel accommodation and a wedding ceremony performed by Svendborg mayor, Viggo Schultz.

Mr. Schultz said recently the arrangement entails that he marry around 15 couples every Thursday in group ceremonies. He added that current demand should keep him busy for at least a year. But while people are streaming into Denmark to marry, Danes themselves seem to be shunning the institution. Instead, Danes are increasingly entering so-called paperless or common law marriages.

Britain puts 600 troops along N. Ireland border

BELFAST, Nov. 18 (R) — Britain flew an extra 600 troops to Northern Ireland today to calm angry Protestants and combat killings by Irish Republican Army (IRA) guerrillas.

Police leave was cancelled indefinitely as authorities tackled a deepening security and political crisis in the British province which has long been wracked by strife between Protestants and Roman Catholics.

Protestants vented their anger yesterday in an attack on Britain's minister for Northern Ireland, James Prior. He was jostled and abused at the funeral of a Protestant member of parliament murdered by IRA gunmen last Saturday.

The attack on Mr. Prior reflected fury at the assassination of the politician, the Rev. Robert Bradford, and growing frustration at what Protestants consider the failure of the British government to deal effectively with the outlawed IRA.

An army spokesman said the additional troops, a spearhead battalion which had been on standby on the British mainland, would be deployed along the border with the Irish republic.

Official sources said there were already between 11,000 and 15,500 British troops helping keep peace in the province, where

Kirkpatrick finds 'sexism' within U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, Nov. 18 (A.P.) — U.S. Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick has said she found more "rank sexism" at the United Nations than in any other public area she has known.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, leveled her criticism at both the U.N. press corps and "some colleagues across the street" at United Nations headquarters.

She said the media tended to suggest that women are either "trading on their femininity, which is a bad thing, or to defend themselves with adjectives like 'tough' or 'iron lady,' which is a bad thing too. So you're sort of damned one way or another... and I find this very unpleasant really."

"I will tell you I believe there is far more rank sexism in and around the United Nations, including most specifically the press corps, than in any arena have encountered in my life. And I've been operating in some heavily male arenas for a good many years — academic arenas which are heavily male and think-tanks which are heavily male and politics..." she told a group of reporters at the U.S. mission.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick, formerly a professor of government at Washington's Georgetown University, has been criticised by some U.N. delegates, notably from the Third World, as delivering lectures rather than speeches to them. They also have drawn comparisons between her and Daniel Patrick Moynihan, a former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, whose confrontational style angered Third World delegates. He now represents New York in the U.S. Senate.

While she declined to give specific examples of sexism she encountered among male U.N. delegates, she noted that some of them came from countries where women are not treated as equals.

the conflict between Protestants and Catholics has claimed more than 2,000 lives in the last 12 years.

Sectarian killings continued unabated last night.

A Protestant member of the para-military Ulster Defence Regiment was gunned down at the gate of his isolated farm and died in his wife's arms. The man, a father of five, had just returned from taking two young sons to a boy's club.

He was the fourth victim of IRA attacks against the regiment in the last 10 days.

Poles content with results of 1st round

WARSAW, Nov. 18 (R) — The Solidarity free trade union and the Polish government negotiated early today on details of major peace talks and agreed to hold more discussions later this week.

Both sides reported goodwill and a favourable atmosphere at the talks which mainly covered procedural questions and were not designed to achieve any immediate breakthrough. The chief government negotiator, Trade Union Affairs Minister Stanislaw Ciosek, told reporters an agenda was agreed for talks on a number of issues later this week.

He said the government had also put forward its proposals on establishing an expanded national unity front. The ruling Communists want to draw Solidarity into it.

Solidarity spokesman Marek Brunne said the union expressed support for attempts to promote national understanding but did not want to commit itself to any movement until society had been given the opportunity to debate all options.

Theory links the CIA to Jonestown

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18 (A.P.) — Peoples Temple leader Jim Jones insisted that death was the ultimate answer. But three years after 912 of his followers died in a mass murder-suicide in a Guyanese jungle, many questions linger.

"To die in revolutionary suicide is to live forever," Jones told his followers, exhorting them to swallow cyanide-laced fruit drink.

Some drank freely. Medical aides squirted doses into the mouths of squirming children. Some people were beaten and forcibly injected, or gunned down by armed guards.

Men, women and children died where they fell, their bodies piled three deep in the muddy compound. Jones was shot to death, by whose hand no one knows.

At least 79 people to tell what happened on Nov. 18, 1978 -- and to ask questions. Jynona Norwood, who lost her mother and 26 other relatives at Jonestown, has planned a memorial service for the anniversary today at Evergreen cemetery, the Oakland graveyard where many of the Jonestown dead were buried. She doesn't expect other relatives of the victims to attend.

"It's painful for a lot of them," she said. "The people who were close to Jones are in pain. They loved this man as a pastor and a person. They had faith in him. Then to have his kingdom crumble — that's humiliation."

"I don't think the truth has come out," said Jim Cobb, a former Peoples Temple who visited Guyana with U.S. Congressman Leo Ryan to investigate charges that Jonestown residents were being abused and held captive. The California Democrat, three journalists and a temple defector were shot to death by assassins at a remote airstrip as they prepared to leave Jonestown just hours before the mass murder-suicide.

"All the investigations are very abbreviated, and for particular purposes, rather than looking at the whole thing and trying to learn from our mistakes," said Robert Bockelman, a lawyer for some temple defectors and survivors in several lawsuits.

One of those suits charges Jones was performing mind-control experiments at the jungle encampment on behalf of the U.S. government. Bockelman, who lost a nephew in Jonestown, is not alone in his theory. Joe Holsinger, a former Ryan aide who believes Jonestown might have been part of CIA behaviour-modification program, said, "It's a mythology the American public was given about what happened at Jonestown."

He said many of the conditions at Jonestown — poor diet, sleep deprivation, beatings, drugings — mirrored those in a U.S. government project known as "MKUltra," allegedly abandoned in the 1970s. A CIA spokesman in Washington has denied the allegations. "We have denied those charges since the very day they were brought, which was just about the day this thing happened," said Dale Peterson, chief of media relations for the CIA. "The CIA was not involved in any way. There was absolutely no substance to those charges."

Mrs. Reagan allegedly given Japanese gift

TOKYO, Nov. 18 (A.P.) — The Japanese magazine that gave U.S. President Ronald Reagan's national security adviser $1,000 for helping set up an interview with Nancy Reagan sent the first lady a handmade letter box as a gift, the newspaper Asahi reported today.

The mass-circulation newspaper also said that on May 27—four months after the interview—Mrs. Reagan sent two thank-you letters on White House stationery to the journalists who interviewed her.

One went to Yoshiko Kimoto, an editor of the magazine Shufu-No-Tomo (Housewife's Friend), and the other to Fuyuko Kamisaka, the freelance journalist who conducted the interview on Jan. 21, Asahi reported.

Architect of New Delhi commemorated in London

LONDON, Nov. 18 (A.P.) — Sir Edwin Lutyens, creator of gardens, cottages and country houses, suburban developments, the Cenotaph War Memorial in London's Whitehall and the Imperial City of New Delhi, is commemorated today in the largest and most elaborate exhibition yet staged on the work of an English architect.

Widely praised in his lifetime, then neglected for decades after his death on his new year's day, 1944, Lutyens is coming back into his own. Some critics believe he will one day be seen as the greatest architect England has ever produced, even above Sir Christopher Wren, who built St. Paul's Cathedral at the end of the 17th century.

Lutyens, born in 1869, the son of an artist, had Dutch and German ancestry, nine brothers and three sisters. He suffered from rheumatic fever so badly that he never went to school. From childhood, he was fascinated by builders and carpenters. He taught himself to draw and made his liking for building so clear that at 15 he was sent to an art school. He spent two years there, leaving because he had no more to learn, then studied in an architect's office for one year and set up his own practice at the age of 20. From his first commission, a house in Surrey, he never looked back.

Huge projects by him were the World War I memorials erected in France, the design and construction of New Delhi and a Roman Catholic cathedral in Liverpool of which only the crypt was built before World War II and inflated costs after the war stopped the project. He also built a castle in Devon for a millionaire grocer and palaces for two Indian Maharajahs.

U.S. sends ambassador to India after 1 year

NEW DELHI, Nov. 18 (A.P.) — Career diplomat Harry G. Barnes Jr. was welcomed officially as the new U.S. ambassador to India yesterday at a cordial ceremony overshadowed by troubled relations between the two countries.

Admitting that there are "inevitable difficulties" between the United States and India, Mr. Barnes told President Neelam Sanjiva Reddy that "it would be good if the world's two largest democracies had fewer rather than more differences."

The presentation of Mr. Barnes' credentials at Rashtrapathi Bhavan, India's sprawling British-built presidential palace, coincided with new evidence of a deepening deadlock between New Delhi and Washington over U.S. nuclear fuel supplies.

The third round of negotiations on the issue this year ended in Washington last week in obvious disagreement. An Indian source who asked not to be named said the end of the 1963 Indo-U.S. uranium supply accord may be announced next week in parliament, 12 years ahead of schedule.

This brought black headlines such as "N-pact with U.S. to end soon" to Indian front pages yesterday.

Accounts here of the Washington talks implied that the 30-year-old supply agreement could be broken off without guarantees sought by the United States against diversion of already spent fuel to atomic weapons development.

The deadlock involved a two-year delay in the shipment of U.S. uranium fuel for a U.S.-built atomic plant at Tarapur-near Bombay. This stems from the 1978 U.S. Nonproliferation Act, requiring international inspection of all Indian atomic installations in addition to Tarapur. India rejects the condition as retroactive and discriminatory.

The major issue poisoning government-to-government relations is the U.S. decision to sell F-16 warplanes and other advanced weapons to Pakistan, prompting Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to accuse the United States for forcing the subcontinent into an arms race.

Mrs. Gandhi returned Monday from a 10-day visit to Bulgaria, Italy and France, where she frequently voiced concern about escalating armaments in this region.

Mrs. Gandhi rejects the U.S. argument that the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan justifies heavily arming Pakistan as a frontline state.

She points out that U.S. weapons supplied in the past to Pakistan wound up being used against India in the three subcontinent wars.

Senate blocks moves to kill U.S. aid deal with Pakistan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (R) — The Reagan administration's plan to sell 40 F-16 jet fighters to Pakistan has cleared two key hurdles in Congress where opposition to the $1.1 billion deal appears to be faltering.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a special House Foreign Affairs Panel yesterday rejected proposals to kill the package, which supporters see as an important part of the administration's move towards closer ties with Islamabad.

Congressional aides said many opposition leaders appeared too weary for a spirited fight on the issue after the president fought off a move last month to kill the proposed sale of sophisticated radar planes to Saudi Arabia.

Afghan refugees stuck in Rome

ROME, Nov. 18 (R) — Some 41 Afghan refugees have been held at Rome's Fiumicino Airport since yesterday because they lack visas for entry to West Germany or Italy, officials said. The refugees, who include six women and 11 children, appealed through reporters to the Italian authorities either to admit them to Italy or allow them to proceed to their intended destination, Frankfurt. They said they arrived from Delhi Monday morning en route to seek political asylum in West Germany but had been stopped at Fiumicino when changing planes and held in the transit area ever since. Officials said the case was under consideration.

Pentagon argues in favour of B-1

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (R) — The Pentagon told Congress today that despite a doubling in cost estimates, it would be no more expensive to build 100 B-1 bombers than to keep the present B-52 strategic bombers flying. The latest estimate put the price of the B-1 fleet at $35 billion to $6 billion, nearly double the cost the defence department gave early in October. Richard Delauer, undersecretary of defence for research, said in a letter to the Senate Appropriations Committee it would cost $85 billion to 100 billion to update and maintain the B-52s through the year 2000 compared with $86 billion to 106 billion to build and maintain the B-1s. Both the B-1 programme and the equally controversial MX missile plan cleared an important hurdle last night when the house appropriations committee endorsed both.

Turks trial resumes in Ankara

ANKARA, Nov. 18 (R) — The trial of extreme right-wing politician Alpaslan Turkes and 300 followers has resumed in Ankara after a one-month adjournment ordered when two of the three judges stood down because of defence allegations about their impartiality. The two judges, both of whom have been reinstated to the martial law tribunal, stepped down on Oct. 16 saying repeated accusations by defence lawyers were casting doubts on their impartiality. Mr. Turkes, 64, is chairman of the Nationalist Movement Party (MHP) and a former deputy prime minister. He and 219 others face the death penalty on charges of plotting to seize power in a right-wing coup. The other 81 defendants face associated but less specific charges that do not carry the death penalty.

Mother Teresa trips over Rome laws

Rome, Nov. 18 (R) — A Rome magistrate has told Mother Teresa of Calcutta that she may face charges of financial irregularities under Italy's stringent currency laws, justice officials said today. Magistrate Fabrizio Hiana Danesi has given a formal warning that Mother Teresa may be indicted as titular head of her order of nuns under the complicated and restrictive foreign exchange regulations which place heavy curbs on movements of capital.
